

Road construction expertise

Drive down your total cost of risk by taking the high road to minimizing risk while maximizing health.

The road construction industry has unique risk characteristics that typically result in high insurance costs. Partnering with an insurance broker that has expertise within the road construction the industry can significantly reduce your total cost of risk. We work as an extension of your construction company to minimize risk, maximize health and drive down insurance costs.

We engage with multiple industry groups including Illinois Road and Transportation Builders Association (IRTBA). Members of our construction practice invest in the industry by sponsoring attending trade conferences and publishing articles, blogs and educational webinars.

What we do

Within our construction practice, we have team members solely dedicated to road construction. The team provides industry-specific expertise for insurance placement, safety, wellness, claims and overall risk management. As a result, our clients have a greater understanding of their insurance programs, as well as experience safer, healthier workplaces, fewer losses and pay lower insurance premiums than industry peers.

Some areas our road construction clients benefit from are:

Risk services – Our team of in-house safety, claims, compliance and wellness advocates know the road construction industry. We work together to improve claim outcomes and prevent future claims through comprehensive programs, education, diagnostics and ‘boots on the ground’ support.

Safety – Our safety consultants provide professional assistance in reducing work-related injuries and losses through safety diagnostics, program implementation and our robust online Risk Management Center (RMC) platform. The RMC gives clients access to incident tracking and educational safety articles, among other tools.

Risk transfer – Our risk services has a department solely dedicated to obtaining, analyzing and monitoring all certificates, contracts and endorsements. As a result, construction companies often rely on MMA’s Risk Transfer Team to not only understand their risks, but also allocate liability when working with third parties (e.g. subcontractors).

Your future is limitless.™
