

Executive Liability

Implement strategies that prevent losses and effectively manage claims.

Policies change and new exposures are constantly challenging business leaders across the country. To protect your business, we have a dedicated Executive Risk team at Marsh McLennan Agency (MMA) focused on analyzing, creating and delivering the most effective executive liability programs. Clients rely heavily on the team's technical and real-world experience to get the best program design and comprehensive coverage to address their specific exposures.

What we do

The team starts by analyzing a client's risk through MMA's proprietary Executive Liability and Cyber 360 assessment tools. These diagnostics are designed to identify loss drivers and specific areas of risk by reviewing a client's policies and management of their executive risk programs. From the analysis, a cost-effective insurance program that provides state-of-the-art coverage is built.

The team uses this assessment as a marketing tool when creating a risk profile. With the client's input, the profile is intended to summarize and highlight key business characteristics and exposures, positive differentiators and respond to underwriters' potential concerns.

Additional benchmarking services to minimize risk

The Executive Risk team uses benchmarking programs to assess insurance program design and provide meaningful and concise recommendations on coverages. MMA's Financial Analytics team works with the Executive Risk team utilizing loss forecasting software to calculate projected losses, analyze reserves and determine collateral needs. The client is then given a synopsis of the review to better understand their loss data and how to minimize risk.
